DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 23-31 are cancelled due to an election that was made without traverse in the reply filed on 10/19/05.
2. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I in the reply filed on 10/19/05 is acknowledged.

Claim Objections

3. Claim 14 is objected to because of the following informalities: the phrase "the frames" lacks proper antecedent basis. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-13 and 15-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by EP 0 718 658 A1.

EP 0 718 658 A1 discloses an actuator (Fig. 2) comprising:
a first region of piezoelectric material (285); a support structure (212); flexures (180) attaching a perimeter of the region to the support structure (see Fig. 2). The actuator further comprising first (245) and second (295) electrodes on opposite faces of the first region (285). The two of the flexures (more than one due to $M \times N$ array) provide respective electrical connections to the first and second electrodes (by 214). An actuator further comprising a second region of piezoelectric material (275); and a third electrode (235), wherein the second electrode is between the first and second regions (see 295 is in between 275 and 285), the first electrode (245) is on a side of the first region opposite to the second electrode, and the third electrode is on a side of the second region opposite to the second electrode (see Fig. 2). The electric field applied to the region causes crystal structure change in a plane of the region causing the region to dish, where in dishing provides a stroke of the actuator (column 4, lines 25-35), wherein the region is part of a bimorph (column 6, line 38), but can be considered as a unimorph when 275 and 285 are combined. The first side of the first region has piezoelectric properties that differ from piezoelectric properties of a second side of the first region (column 7, lines 20-33). The support structure comprises a substrate underlying the region (see 212). The substrate comprises electrically conductive traces that the flexures electrically connect to the electrodes (214). The RAINBOW actuator as shown in Fig. 10 of the present invention is same shape as Fig. 2 of the prior art, thus the prior art meets this claim limitation.

Art Unit: 2872

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EP 0 718 658 A1 in view of Kinsley (US 2,714,642).

EP 0 718 658 A1 discloses the claimed invention as set forth above except that the actuator array is in hexagonal shape and the frames are arranged in a hexagonal array. Kinsley discloses in column 2, lines 57-61, that the actuator array can be in any shape. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to make the actuator array and the frame to be in hexagonal shape as taught by Kinsley for the purpose of meeting the need of different shapes for the actuators.
